DAMAGE CLAIMS FOR MINING OPERATIONS.

The Somerset county coal operators are beginning to encounter the inevitable suits for damages because of the letting down of the miner's surface lands or the taking away of his domestic water supply.

Such damage suits do not obtain where purchasers of coal from the original owners have gained wisdom with experience. Yet the farmer who sells his coal without knowledge or proper appreciation of the damages which may be wrought thereby by mining out the coal is evidently the victim of a measure of justice when he unwittingly waives all such damages and on the other hand the operator is too frequently mulcted in large and manifestly unjust sums by biased juries before whom such cases are tried.

Perhaps a more equitable plan would be to provide a final plan on the land in the nature of liquidated damages not to be due until mining operations were commenced but in payment of such a plan would be difficult of execution because of the unwillingness of the vendor to agree to it. He usually wants all that is coming to him as soon as he can get it.

THE FREE BRIDGE MOVEMENT IN FAYETTE COUNTY.

The free bridge movement in Fayette county has gathered such momentum that every vestige of this ancient and long standing injustice to certain communities must soon be swept away by the flood of public opinion.

The Dawson bridge was condemned by voters a few days ago and its situation assessed at $60,000. The Bellevue bridge and went a similar condemnation yesterday, and its price as appraised at $50,000. This bridge however will be an inter-county bridge and one-half the cost of making it free and maintaining it will be borne by Washington county.

The requisition of these bridges by the county authorities will provide Fayette county plenty thoroughly with free bridges. Clinton and Conneltsville were situated years ago. Conneltsville and Point Marion within the past ten years. Dawson and Bellevue are now under way and when they are taken over it will be time to take up a free bridge for Brownsville and possibly another between that town and Point Marion.

The brunt of the free bridge movement was borne by progressive Conneltsville citizens. The fight lasted through nearly fifteen years. Repeated defeats only served to make the next engagement more aggressive and more effective. And the battle waged until the opposition was beaten down and destroyed and the defenders of the tobacco surrendered with dispatch and discretion.

The example of a free bridge at Conneltsville has opened the way for free bridges in other communities and has thus illustrated the wisdom of the same county supporting each other in such public improvement instead of barking like yellow dogs at progress.

One of the chief obstacles the Conneltsville free bridge promoters had to overcome was the serious opposition on the part of other towns. The wisdom of the other policy is now apparent.

Conneltsville was fighting for these towns as well as herself and her voice will continue to be raised and her influence exerted to free bridges in every part of the county to the end that every community shall be justly dealt with. The free bridge doctrine we preach in our own case we will maintain.

TAX COLLECTIONS AND TAX COLLECTORS' FONDS.

The statement that tax collectors elected this spring find it difficult to obtain bondsmen such bonds being looked upon with disfavor by trust companies and bonding associations is rather startling but it is the logical result of the system of tax gathering which prevails in this section of Pennsylvania.

The root of the evil lies in the custom which has prevailed of extending unreasonable credit to taxpayers and collectors. The reform should begin with the tax levying powers that is the County Commissioners, the Town Council, the School Boards and the Township Supervisors. They should insist upon the collection of their taxes with the least delay and enforce that insistence by legal proceedings against the Tax Collector if necessary.

Facing these conditions the Tax Collector will find a powerful incentive to energetic work in making his collections. He will be furnished with a substantial reason why he cannot comply with the tax levied upon him or extended credit. The compliance which is now common to the collector will be at his own risk, instead of at the cost of the community and he will not be so commonly disposed to accept excuses. Knowing the limit of his own time he will be apt to enforce that limit upon the citizens.

The result will be prompt payment of taxes and prompt settlement of tax duplicates and this result will in a large measure eliminate the temptation which assails a weak collector to speculate with the public funds too often disastrously.

The system has encouraged the citizen to slow payment and the collector to slow settlement. The citizen with slow payment to the collector and the collector with slow settlement to the authorities of all he has collected it has become a common custom for collectors to keep a liberal balance of the tax monies in their own hands giving the convenient excuse that collections are slow.

This public money is a private temptation which many collectors have been unable to withstand. They have succumbed to temptations of getting quick schemes of all sorts and their bondsmen have had to settle large defalcations. The serious extent of this condition is illustrated in the refusal of trust companies and bonding associations to become sureties on the bonds of such collectors. These financial agencies make a business of furnishing such bonds. They are managed by clear-headed business men who have arrived at the deliberate conclusion that such risks are unsafe.

In justice to the public to the collectors and to their bondsmen the payment of taxes should be rigidly required within the year. Delinquency in this matter is only a habit and if the habit of payment within the year is established there will be no further trouble about prompt annual settlements of the tax duplicates.

CANNONISM AND REPUBLICANISM.

The revolt against Cannonism in the House at Washington is a revolt against the man or the system or both and it is proper to consider both on their merits and in respect to their party relation.

The insurgent element directed their efforts toward the elimination of the Speaker from the Committee on Rules. This committee steers legislation and is virtually the rudder of the House. The insurgents were successful in their efforts through the assistance of a solid Democracy. That aid was given not for the purpose of furthering any legislative principle but simply and solely with a view to dividing and ultimately destroying the Republican majority in the lower branch of the Congress.

The system was inaugurated during the incumbency of Speaker Thomas B. Reed of Maine when in order to prevent the filibustering tactics of the minority directed toward the defeat of policies to which the Republican majority was pledged he Reed Rules which gained the Speaker the appellation of Czar Reed were enacted. These rules have remained the same ever since. They have become a part of the Republican practice and have the cordial endorsement of the Republican majority.

Speaker Cannon may have been personally dictatorial but if the insurgent opposition to him is personal it is far from being Republican. The Republican party believes in the right of the majority to rule and the insurgent who disputes that fact is not a good Republican. If the insurgent rule is against the rules it is a revolt against Republican faith and practice which should never see Democratic alliance and aid in its enforcement. The policies of any party should be determined within the party and its members should either abide by the policies of the party or abandon any pretense of adherence to it.

The justice and wisdom of the Reed rules are questions open to debate but the insurgents are mistaken if they assume that the argument is all on one side. The Reed rules may smack of tyranny but they insure the right of the majority to govern the body. The clamor of the insurgents for rule by membership rather than by the centralized power of the Speaker is open to the danger that through its operation on the wheels of legislation may be continually deadlocked and the pledges of the majority party go unredemmed. The Reed rules may be summed up to be the height of common sense and fair play in the hands of a broad minded and patriotic Speaker or the worst form of tyranny in every part of the county to the end that every community shall be justly dealt with. The free bridge doctrine we preach in our own case we will maintain.

THE REGULATION OF THE FOREIGNER'S GUN.

The law which forbids the foreigner to own or carry a gun is declared by the slightly overworked Washington Observer to be an unconstitutional outrage in the language of the foreign tongue, voileyes and mebbe no.

The enactment of the law was prompted by the fact that too many foreigners with too many guns made too many murder cases for our courts to try at each term. The law was founded in public morality and designed in practice to promote public economy. Its aim was to save the taxpayer from himself, to protect the community from his lawlessness to conserve public order and to reduce as much as possible the cost of crime.

There is some question whether the law is effective in accomplishing what it designs. It certainly has not prevented foreign residents from rioting among themselves and killing and wounding each other nor from their attacks upon American citizens nor from their violations of the game laws. The Washington county constable who played detective to get the guns of foreigners and haled them into court was exceptionally vigilant. The average constable is not so particular. It is evident however that the law is not as dead as a doornail in the county and that the enforcement of it is not as much of a task as it is in some other parts of the law. The law should stand, however, in the face of its inefficiency or however reprehensible the methods of an occasional officer may seem.

OLD FASHIONED HOME MADE BASEBALL.

The baseball enthusiasts have not given up all hope of having their quota of excitement this summer. Their interstate league aspirations have vanished into thin air but in lieu thereof they now propose a county circuit.

That is the better plan. Let Conneltsville and Uniontown, Brownsville and South Brownsville, Dunbar and Ohioville, Dawson and Vanderburg, Perryopolis and Star Junction form a county association with home players who will hit the ball and do lots of running about the bases and make things lively all the time.

Let us have a return to old fashioned baseball without the necessity of spending thousands of dollars for the services of professional players in whom the people have no personal interest. Take the players from the communities and let them fight it out. Passer's own pride even if there is an occasional free for all foot ball without the ball before the friends of the players get off he gets it.

If we must have baseball let us have the home made kind the kind which does not require the services of a band of angels to keep it playing.

THE FAYETTE COUNTY CHILDREN'S HOME.

The location of the new children's home of the Fayette county is the subject of the proposed new county, built up would be located at or near Conneltsville instead of around the vicinity of Uniontown. It is being taken seriously by the Poor Directors who are considering the purchase of a full lot between Conneltsville and Dunbar and the establishment there of the proposed children's home.

If this is finally determined upon we hope there will be no eleven hour objections on the part of our esteemed contemporaries over the decision of the Poor Directors. No fair representation over words spoken either in jest or earnest or no backing and filling on the part of the county.

The site under consideration is reported to be an excellent one from every point of view but it should be anything objectionable about it will be made known hereafter.

THE RUNNING BOARD AND THE SUMMER CAR.

The running board of a trolley car is no place for passengers and it is not a place for their own risk and the convenience of the Westmoreland county.

The decision is no doubt good but the running board during the summer season is frequently the only place some passengers can find to ride upon. Under this decision the passenger must wear a seat belt or a risk of take a walk.

Perhaps the dilemma will be better solved by better planned cars. The trolley interests do not invite accident on the running board or else where on the car. If they seek by every available means to guard against that.

The summer car is a desirable because of its coolness and the facility it affords for quick exit in an emergency. The ingenuity of the trolley inventor can devise some plan whereby riding on the running board may be prevented there will be no need to change the style of the summer car.

CONGRESSIONAL ASPIRATIONS WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Modern political machine politicians, which would have made the citizens' grasp in amazement, choke with rage and curse with energy for example, a citizen of Allegheny county to announce through the Republican newspapers of Pittsburg that he is a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Republican district composed of Greene, Fayette and Sumner counties.

Jesse H. Wise the incumbent is a son of the late Hon. Morgan R. Wise who represented the district composed of Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties in the 45th and 46th Congress. The only announcement the candidate ever made was a brief card in the Democratic newspapers of the district. He also supplemented this announcement with strictly private assurances concerning every public question from postoffice to government and in the distribution of these assurances not a Democrat was missed. In those days it was not necessary to see the Republicans.

Morgan R. Wise was a native and resident of Little Greene and he would have bitterly resented the candidacy of any citizen of Allegheny county. If our recollection serves us correctly we believe he did resent the only attempt ever before made to do this very thing.

The younger Wise promulgates a platform which he announces through the medium of the Republican press to a dimly prospective and faintly admiring constituency. The candidate never published any such sense. He carried his platform under his hat and published it to the undivided voter by verbal communication. A check it is recorded some times dropped into a whisper. But his platforms were more thoroughly published than any of his son's can possibly be. He had no equal as an indefatigable campaigner. Not a man on either side of the street escaped him and few babies the times may have changed and the customs of politics may have changed but the effectiveness of a personal contact campaign has not changed and this lesson is one which the younger Wise has not apparently learned from his father.

However, it little matters whether the younger Wise is wise in politics than the older Wise or otherwise. It will be a long time before this Congressional district is represented by a Democrat, especially a Democrat from an outside district. If Jesse is as wise as his name indicates he will try to break into Congress from some other district. We would suggest that he spread his platform and set up his candidacy in Wise county, Virginia.

The Uniontown Herald tells the readers that the Conneltsville coke operators have every cause to feel elated because coke production has increased ten tons. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GETS TUBE MILL FOR CONNELLSVILLE.

Ground Broken Tuesday Morning for Plant of Keystone Tube Works Near Wheeler.

WILL OPERATE BY JUNE 15

Company is To Manufacture Special Tubing Which is Used for Many Different Purposes—Monthly Pay Roll to Average $10,000

After working quietly for several weeks the Chamber of Commerce acting on the suggestion of L. F. Ruth, President of the Title & Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, has succeeded in landing the Keystone Tube Works for Conneltsville and on Tuesday ground was broken for the main building which will be finished by June 15. It is expected to have the mill in operation by June 15.

The plant of the Keystone Tube Works will be located on the old Wheeler oven plant and the site was donated by the Wheeler Improvement Company of the head of which are Rockwell Marietta, William Dull and Clair Stillwagon. There are 100 acres in the plot, which is situated between the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads tracks. The company has more ground under option with a view of later extending the plant.

The main building, which will be 65x250 feet, of brick and steel construction, with a lean to building 20x60 feet. The office building will be separate and apart from the main buildings. The main office of the company will be in Conneltsville.

The company will manufacture special tubing which is used extensively in making brass and iron beds, wire fences, agricultural machinery, tire levers, electric conduits and for general mechanical purposes. The company will employ about 100 men the first year and the payroll will average $10,000 a month. The greater part of the employees will be skilled mechanics. The plant will start with an initial capacity of 10,000 tons of tubes a year and will run double time from the start.

Producers for the manufacture of gas will be installed and the plant will be operated by steam power at the beginning. Owing to the close proximity of the West Park power house it is probable that electric power may later be adopted.

The Keystone Tube Works was recently organized under the laws of Delaware with a capital stock of $200,000. There are six directors at present but the charter will be amended to increase this number to nine. A local man will be named on the enlarged board.

The present officers of the company are President J. W. Bollinger, Vice President F. C. Perrott, Secretary Joshua Nuttall and Treasurer James E. McNair. These men with E. L. Suckow and C. G. Guver are the present directors.

Mr. Bollinger will be the active head of the concern. He has had a long and successful career along this line of work. For 15 years he was with the Hoidnysburg Iron & Steel Company, after which a Superintendent and partner for the Carnegie Steel Company in Chicago sales agent for the same company and up to two years ago was manufacturers agent for five tub companies.

Mr. Perrott is also an experienced tub men. Secretary Nuttall was for some years with the Pennsylvania Steel Company and since its consolidation with the National Tube Works has been a partner for the Carnegie Steel Company. Mr. McNair was also with the Pennsylvania Steel Company, but later engaged in the engineering and power plant construction business.

It was L. F. Ruth's acquaintance and knowledge of the ability and stability of those interested in the Keystone Tube Works that brought the concern to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce. At the same time Mr. Ruth's good words for Conneltsville and his general knowledge of the situation here had much to do with convincing Mr. Bollinger and his associates of the desirability of Conneltsville as a location in this manner Mr. Ruth worked the plan from both quarters in town with the tub works people and then keeping close to the promoters and not permitting them to overlook a single advantage that the town offers. In the financial transactions incident to the location of the mill here he was also the directing spirit and to his keen insight and insistence that the new company should deliver their end of the agreement as specifically as the own the credit is due.

Mr. Bollinger has already rented a home in Conneltsville and will move his family here immediately. The other members of the corporation will also move here within the next three years the company expects to employ between 200 and 300 men.

Morgantown Folks Are Economical Buying Tickets

Although the new B. & O. ruling on the two cent rate does not affect the passenger rate in West Virginia it increases the rate from Morgantown to Pittsburgh for travelers who have been purchasing their tickets to Point Marion and then to the Smoky City. By the new rule of the railroad company, the rate from Conneltsville to Pittsburgh remains the same two cents owing to the competition with the Pennsylvania.

According to information received, the rate from Uniontown to Pittsburgh has been advanced to two and one half cents on the mile. By this arrangement little can be saved by Morgantowners in purchasing tickets to Uniontown and then to Pittsburgh which used to be the cheapest way. The round trip fare from Morgantown to Uniontown is $1.25 and the new round trip fare from Uniontown to Pittsburgh is about $2.75 making a total of $4.00 for the round trip from Morgantown to Pittsburgh. The fare charged a Morgantown office is $4.90 for the sum of 16 cents only would be saved by purchasing a ticket to Uniontown.

The chapter was however is to buy tickets to Conneltsville and then secure the two cent rate from Conneltsville to Pittsburgh. The round trip fare from Morgantown to Conneltsville is $1.75 and from Conneltsville to Pittsburgh is $2.24 making a total of $4.00. By this arrangement (which is the same fare is paid from Morgantown to Pittsburgh as by the old way of buying tickets to Uniontown and from there to Pittsburgh. By Point Marion the former fare to Pittsburgh was $1.10 10 cents more than by Uniontown.

Important Changes On The Sheepskin On New Schedule

It is reported on good authority that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will make a number of important changes in the passenger service on the Baltimore and New York line. Although no official announcement has been made of the change it seems to be a foregone conclusion that the changes will be made if the people of Morgan town and Uniontown press their claims already presented to the company.

It is understood that it is the intention of the company to change the schedules on No. 2 and No. 1 and to introduce the new time table to be made by the Board of Directors of Morgan town. By the new arrangement No. 1 will pass through Morgan town shortly after 8 o'clock giving Pullman car service direct to New York by connection at Conneltsville with No. 6 and No. 1 will leave Morgan town between 9 and 10 o'clock connecting with No. 5 at Conneltsville for Pittsburgh. No. 5 in the new schedule may be made half an hour earlier arriving here.

It is the intention of the railroad company, so it is reported to establish an additional train leaving Conneltsville about 7:30 and arriving at Morgan town at 8:30. It is planned to take the train to the return trip leaving Morgan town about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.
